Dear current and future patients,

It is with great joy that I introduce my new associate, Dr. Thalia Farschchian, who will be joining our family at Medical Options for Wellness in March 2018. After two long years of searching for the right person, I am excited to have found someone who will be able to deliver the same high quality of care and expertise you have come to expect from us.

Dr. Thalia has a solid background in Functional Medicine, Intravenous therapies, and Bio-Identical Hormone Replacement Therapy. Over the past few years she has also been treating Lyme disease and Mold illness patients.

As you are probably already aware, each doctor treats Lyme disease and Mold illness a little differently. Over the past months we have been actively collaborating with each other to improve and refine our approaches to these complicated conditions to ensure the same highly successful treatments, and that each is recovering and moving forward in their healing journey.

Over the next few months many of you will have the opportunity to work with Dr. Thalia as we transition her into the office. I am confident you will find her to be a competent, caring, and compassionate doctor. I am very excited to have the opportunity to collaborate with her on patient care. We each bring a unique mix of talents and experience and plan to actively work together, instituting the best treatment for you. While you will be consulting with only one of us during each office visit, please know that we are working together as a team in evaluating your progress and directing your healthcare toward complete recovery.

Warm Regards,
